WHO ARE WE?

We are a global investment and retirement savings business demanding world-class technology. From managing vast pension funds looking after thousands of retirement incomes to helping individuals with cash savings grow their money, it is essential that we have access to real-time information and help portfolio managers and analysts to share insights around the clock to make the best possible decisions for our clients.

This is where technology comes in. Our technology teams not only provide business critical support and develop custom-built software applications, they also look at innovation in technology, bespoke solutions to stay ahead of the competition and work in agile methods to deliver global solutions for Fidelity's business.

JOIN US NOW

We are now looking for a new generation of talent to help us move forward. You do not need to have studied a particular subject - we look for students with an innovative mind-set who are ready to question everything.

You will be working on an interesting case which requires your innovation and new ideas. The winner of the challenge will be rewarded with an interview opportunity for a 2-3 month internship with us. As part of the challenge, students are expected to form groups of 2-4 participants to work on a business case solution which develops and proposes technology-driven strategies that can be implemented in solving challenges currently faced within the industry.
