4. Course Description

Course Description	The world becomes more digitized than ever. With the total number of active social media users reaching several billion worldwide, understanding how to effectively communicate with consumers on social platforms has become an integral part of every business's success. This course will help students understand social media marketing from three perspectives—principles, applications and strategies. Social media and network theory, popular social media strategies, social media management tools and relevant ethical framework such as consumer privacy will be introduced. The course will also familiarize students with best practices and tactics used by popular platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, Pinterest, Twitter, TikTok and others. The course includes hands-on development of social media tactics and channels. This may require students to set up group social media accounts and manage them during second half of the semester. Upon completing this course, students will be equipped with the knowledge and master skills which are essential to build, analyze, and manage real-world social media marketing campaigns.
Prerequisites	MKTG2501: Introduction to Marketing

5. Course Objectives

1. To build a conceptual understanding of the principles and theories behind social media marketing.
2. To earn hands-on, working knowledge of management skills used by social media professionals.
3. To understand approaches to integrating social media with other digital marketing tools.
4. To identify, evaluate and develop social media marketing strategies.
5. To apply the knowledge and skills in building, analyzing and managing social presence.

9. Assessment Methods

A3. Group Project	Students will work in groups to complete an 8 to 10-page written report, along with a 15-minute presentation at the end of the course. Note that the length of the presentation is subject to change, depending on the class size. This project is meant to put students in the shoes of a digital marketing manager for a company or an organization that has been asked to adopt social media to its marketing strategy and monitor the performance of the activities. Students may draw insight from recent marketing research and case studies that look at social media use by companies, provided that all sources are properly cited. Students can either analyzing an existing social media account of a business entity or they can create their own social media account to study (e.g., a Facebook page of a student organization).	35%	1,2,3,4,5,6
A4. Final Test (individual)	The final quiz will be cumulative and closed-book. The quiz will be used to assess students' (1) understanding of key principles and concepts of social media marketing, (2) application of the learned knowledge and skills to identify social media marketing issues and recommend social media marketing strategies to the contexts. The quiz consists of two sections: multiple choice questions and short answer questions. Multiple choice questions will be used to assess students' understanding of key principles and concepts of social media marketing which are covered in class and assigned readings. Short answer questions will be used to evaluate students' ability to integrate and apply the learned knowledge and skills to identify social media marketing issues and recommend social media marketing strategies to the contexts.	30%	1,2,3
